

$8 Million in New Buildings

Building permits for the Lemon Grove area totaled $8,148,167 in 1950, according to figures just released from the building inspector's office in San Diego.

Lemon Grove has consistently lead the unincorporated area of San Diego County in building for more than a year, and indications are that 1951 will equal or top the 1950 figures if we do not have war.

While some of the building permits were taken out by subdividers, the major portion of the $8,000,000 was built by individuals.

Y's Men Enjoy YMCA Hospitality

Thirteen local members attended the Chula Vista and Lemon Grove Y's Men's Club meeting at the downtown YMCA Tuesday evening.

Highlight of the program was a film "One Day Nearer Democracy" demonstrating Y influence in other lands.

A tour of the building was enjoyed followed by volleyball and swimming. Don Morse, district governor, presided.

The next local Y's Men's meeting will be on January 23 at Friendship Hall, stressing Youth Service for 1951. This will be the first centennial meeting of the local club.

LA MESA ORDINANCE THROTTLING BUSINESS

The La Mesa City Council has passed an ordinance requiring a city license from every institution, firm or person doing business in that city.

The ordinance is so worded that any firm or individual located anywhere in the county making so much as one sale in the city of La Mesa is subject to the license or the penalties for failure to procure such a license.

Considerable protest has arisen among certain lines of business, and particularly by firms outside of La Mesa who have customers in that city.

Even the newspapers are required to take a license, and if the La Mesa newspapers submit to licensing they are permitting politicians to dictate to them whether or not they shall be permitted to stay in business, in spite of the Constitution of the United States, which says that Congress shall pass no law abridging the freedom of the press.

Lemon Grove business men will be subject to the license, or a heavy fine, if they so much as make one sale in the city of La Mesa. Local real estate men are subject to license in that city if they make one sale of La Mesa city property, even though they are licensed by the State of California to do business anywhere in the State.

This vicious piece of legislation is going to work a hardship on La Mesa business houses, in that if outsiders cannot do a legitimate business in that town, neither will the La Mesa business men get to do business with the outsiders.

This rule works both ways. A city license for small revenue purposes is one thing, but a city license to stifle competition is another.

Lemon Grove has no city license, and never will have so long as the present form of mind exists here.

This city welcomes more business, and competition. With its streets and free parking, it is welcomed here.

Hi, Neighbor

by Mae Rex Graham

We are hoping for a sunshiny day on Saturday for that is the day for all of you good Hi Neighbors to call on Luther N. and Mary Hussey to give them a warm welcome to Lemon Grove.

Mr. Hussey is opening his law office this week end at 7898 Broadway and he'll be right proud to have you see his new building.

Then you'll be pleased too, that Mr. and Mrs. Hussey have given Lemon Grove another business institution of which we may all be proud.

While you are in that vicinity on Broadway, be sure to stop in and see the lovely new home of Lemon Grove Florists—Alma Lewis to all of us.

There is no need now to go out of Lemon Grove to buy flowers for any occasion—weddings, parties, funerals, gifts to brighten the sick room, etc.

In the rear of the Flower Shop, Mrs. Lewis will be proud to show you a large lath house, 30 x 50 feet, full of potted plants, camellias, azaleas and others in bloom, and hundreds of small plants to be used later in the shop.

Have you noticed the new medical building going up on Golden? Construction was progressing nicely until the rain came.

We are all so happy to have rain but it hasn't stopped folks from coming down town to trade.

Rain or shine, the business district in Lemon Grove is full of cars parked by local shoppers and those from outlying areas.

We have had some good tips concerning new businesses that are coming here. Some big sales have been made of lots on Broadway.

Stories will be released as soon as the sales are out of escrow.

Last year over 8 million dollars was spent on property in the Lemon Grove area.

People are still wanting to come here to live. Nearly 20 persons have been in the Review office in the first four days of this week inquiring about rentals in the Review.

If you have rooms, an apartment or house that could be rented, tell them about in the classified column.

VISITING PARENTS

Staff Sgt. Richard Smith, Jr., and Mrs. Smith of Quantico, Va., came Tuesday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith, 7261 Central. Sergeant Smith is with the Marine Air Force and will report to the Base at El Toro.

Help Needed for March of Dimes

An urgent call for volunteers to participate in the 1951 March of Dimes of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis was issued today by Dr. Peter Shea, chairman of the polo fund-raising drive in Lemon Grove.

"The fight against infantile paralysis is everybody's fight," Dr. Shea declared. "The March of Dimes is the arsenal from which we draw the weapons to win that fight. Right now, due to unprecedented costs of care for a record number of patients, that arsenal is depleted. In fact the National Foundation still owes millions today for 1950 care. Consequently, I urge all public-spirited citizens of Lemon Grove to sign up now for volunteer work during the period of the drive, January 15-31."

Help is needed with scores of tasks, Dr. Shea explained, and there is a job suited to everyone, whether it be addressing March of Dimes Cards, distributing Coin Collectors, or ringing doorbells.

"Remember, we all have a stake in this drive," Dr. Shea said. "Our stake is to wipe out polio. It is up to us to see that the fight against infantile paralysis goes on this year. A hard-hitting volunteer army is needed right now for this home-front battle. Join up or better still, call H 8-2189 today."

Netzley Heads Civilian Job

Byron Netzley, superintendent of Schools, was named to handle the civilian defense program in Lemon Grove at a public meeting held at the fire station last Friday evening.

Mr. Netzley will have the help of a great number of people. Forms were passed around for those present to sign, indicating the type of work they would like to do, in the event of a war emergency.

Such a form appears at the bottom of this page today, and any who were not at the meeting can sign this and send it to Mr. Netzley at Lemon Grove School.

Not much was done other than to name Mr. Netzley chairman of the civilian defense program. The committee is awaiting further instructions from Sacramento before mapping a complete plan of aid in case of emergency.

However, Mr. Netzley is going ahead with all arrangements for the care of injured, and ambulance and evacuation service for neighboring areas in case Lemon Grove is called upon to assist the more vulnerable spots.

Climate Was Deciding Factor in the Husseys' Choice of Location

Completion of the Law Building at 7898 Broadway marks another step in Lemon Grove's steady march of commercial progress. This modern two story building, designed by Herluf Brydgaard and built by Chris Ferguson, contains about 2500 square feet. On the upper floor is a deluxe apartment of about 1200 feet exclusive of a 250 foot sun deck overlooking Broadway. The lower floor contains a store space and offices.

Daylight and ventilation is abundantly provided by large glass windows and skylights. Heating is by two thermostatically controlled automatic gas fired forced air circulation furnaces with summer-winter hook-up.

Luther N. Hussey, the owner, announces the opening on next Saturday of his law offices on the ground floor. His office hours will be 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., and evenings by appointment. A tenant for the store space has not yet been selected. The apartment above is occupied by Mr. Hussey and his wife, Mary.

Mrs. Hussey, a Notary Public, will act as receptionist and assist with secretarial work in the Law Office.

Luther is a native of Georgia and Mary hails from deep in the heart of Texas. They met and married in Denver, Colorado, more than 20 years ago.

Prior to World War II, Hussey's interest in Veterans affairs resulted in his selection as National Adjutant and Legislative Representative for the Regular Veterans Association. This as-

Lutherans Occupy New Church Next Sunday

Sunday will be a red letter day for the congregation of Lemon Grove Lutheran Church for that will be the first day of worship in the new church at the corner of Skyline and Alton.

The building program was started in June of last year with construction of a lovely modern six-room parsonage, garage and pastor's study. Rev. Elster and family moved into their new home in September.

The first unit of the church is 74 feet long and 39 feet wide with a wing 24 feet by 32 feet. A larger sanctuary will be built later.

Besides the auditorium, there are several class rooms for the Sunday School, a mother's room and kitchen.

The auditorium will comfortably seat 350 people.

Pastor Elster told a Review editor, "In that there are several details yet to be completed before the church truly can be called finished, no real plans have been made for the dedication of the church. Fuller details on the appearance of the church, its construction and pictures will be made available when the congregation is ready to announce its dedication."

The new congregation is a little over a year old, during which great strides have been made in all phases of its work. Rapid growth in the membership of the congregation has been made in the short time of its existence. Pastor Elster states that, "every one who does not have a church home is more than welcome to come and worship with the congregation in its new church home."

Sunday School begins at 9:30 a. m., and worship services begin at 10:45 a. m. Attendance at both services is more than 100 each Sunday.

Sutton Named
Campaign Head

Vince Ridge, 1951 Red Cross fund campaign chairman, has announced the appointment of Wain William Sutton as campaign director.

In accepting his appointment Sutton said: "The Red Cross in San Diego city and county must meet a war-expanded need both at home and in services to members of the armed forces and their families. Our biggest need at the moment, as we prepare to raise the necessary funds during the month of March, is for volunteers—workers who will help in the great task. Men and women willing to give their time should register now at campaign headquarters, 936 Second Ave."

Helix High is Name of New Hi

The Board of Trustees of Grossmont Union High School district have named the new high school in west La Mesa, "Helix High." Decision was based on the name of Grossmont for the present Grossmont High School which set a precedent for naming the school after a mountain. The mountain identifies the area served by the new school and is well known to all people in the San Diego area.

Another consideration is that the school will serve a number of different communities and the school belongs to all communities served equally.

The name "Helix" was first suggested to the Board by Mrs. M. F. Keller of La Mesa who said, "Mt. Helix hovers over La Mesa and vicinity like a great symbol of free worship, friendliness, unity, integrity, achievement. The new high school will allow all creeds and all races to develop toward achievement in the American heritage."

The name "Helix" should give the new high school inspiration toward these goals.

Committee Has Much to Show for Year's Work

The street committee of the Chamber of Commerce, of which A. F. Sonka is the chairman, can look with pride at accomplishments in 1950.

Boulevard shops were secured in all locations needed for the present.

Horizontal parking was secured on Main Street between Pacific and Daytona.

Resurfacing was done on Imperial between North and Mt. Vernon with promise of future widening.

Parking was corrected on Imperial in front of the VFW Hall. Shrubs and other obstructions were cleared at Lincoln and Imperial, removing a hazard.

Palm trees were trimmed on Main, Central, Lincoln and Palm.

Palm Street was widened between Imperial and Washington.

A pedestrian crossing was established across the railroad tracks between the two Drug stores.

Washington was made a one way street between Broadway and Golden, thus removing a serious traffic hazard.

The corner of Main and Burrell was widened and surfaced.

Street on which sewers had been constructed were left in bad condition. Road department corrected the condition through urging of the committee.

Passengers on Last Trip Over Scenic Route

The San Diego and Arizona Eastern Railway made its last passenger run today over one of the most colorful and scenic routes in all the United States.

The railroad, a subsidiary of the Southern Pacific, is ending its passenger service between San Diego and Calexico after 30 years of service.

The closing of the service is of more than passing interest to at least one Lemon Grove citizen, R. G. Richardson, 2458 Bonita street.

Mr. Richardson is a U. S. Immigration officer, connected with the San Diego office. The Immigration officers are under the jurisdiction of the Department of Justice, headed by the U. S. Attorney General.

The S. A. and A. E. line crosses the international border between the United States and Mexico several times between San Ysidro and Calexico.

To save the railway time at the border points, immigration men ride the trains and do their border inspecting on the trains instead of holding up the trains while inspection is being done at the border.

One of Mr. Richardson's duties has been to ride this train. He began doing this 6 1/2 years ago, for a time riding to Calexico and back every day, until the personnel of the San Diego immigration office got so large that it was decided to pass this work around among the men.

The duty has been a pleasant one, Mr. Richardson stated to a Review representative, and he will miss the trip through the Carriso Gorge, said to be equal in beauty to the Royal Gorge of the Rio Grande in Colorado.

The San Diego and Arizona Eastern Railway was originally built as a Spreckels enterprise, and completed in 1919 at a cost of over 18 million dollars. It traverses some of the most beautiful scenery in the United States, and passes through 21 tunnels and the 11-mile Carriso gorge, where it was necessary to blast through solid rock to construct a roadbed.

New Fire Station is Nearly Ready

The new fire station on Central avenue is taking shape, and soon will be ready to receive the first pumper truck, which is due most any day now.

The commissioners purchased two big trucks several months ago, with delivery on the smaller one promised shortly after the first of the year.

The district is buying the Educational Unit of the Baptist Church for a fire station. The building is being remodeled and being converted into a fire station before it is turned over to the fire district.

Rev. Mulkey, chairman of the Fire Commissioners, made a statement regarding the building at the civilian defense meeting last Friday evening, in which he stated that the church was still using the building for Sunday School purposes, as it was still their property, and would not be turned over to the district until the remodeling work was completed.

He also stated that the district was getting the property for less than $10,000. Furthermore, that it had a value of nearer $20,000, and Chris Ferguson, who was present at the meeting, bore him out in this statement.

He said that the fire district commissioners approached the church officials before he became connected with the commission, and wanted to buy the building, as it was near the center of the district.

The church did not desire to sell at that time, but later reconsidered. When Rev. Mulkey was named to the board, Mr. Anderson, a board member, renewed his negotiations for the property, and the church, feeling that here was an opportunity to serve Lemon Grove in a big way, decided to relinquish the building and land for a fire station, and at a price that would be fair and equitable to all concerned.

Limited Controls

It looks as if the cost of certain key food items isn't going to be controlled very soon, after all.

Price Administrator Mike Di Salle who came to Washington prepared to do a job for the housewife got a rude shock when he read the price-control law thoroughly. For the farm lobby had neatly inserted certain exceptions to price control, and one of them is grain. In brief, Di Salle has no power whatsoever to control the price of grain or any food made from grain.

So Di Salle will have to go back to congress in January and get the law rewritten.

Aside from this the new price czar has decided that he will not try to control a whole variety of prices, but will stick chiefly to a few cost-of-living items plus basic metals and war production raw materials.

Note—Di Salle arrived in Washington from Toledo, Ohio, to find he had no telephone, no staff, and no legal power to stop price rises. All he had was a heap of angry letters from housewives. At first he was tempted to buy a return ticket to Toledo, but he has been getting to work at 6 a.m., going to bed after midnight, and is gradually working order out of chaos.

Russian War Plans

Outguessing the Kremlin is extremely difficult these days, but here is how American experts, trained to do this job, size up the immediate war future.

No. 1 Soviet strategy will probably be to grab off weak and isolated nations one-by-one.

No. 2 will be to lure the United States into committing men and resources in a big war in Asia. In this case Russia would throw enough armament into the battle to aid local Communists to hold down American strength.

No. 3. While we were tied up in Asia, Russian armies would drive across western Europe. The latter move is not expected this year, however. The Kremlin wants to entrap us in other areas first.

A summary of Soviet war strategy can be paraphrased as follows: "Russian policy is to expand its borders as far as the indifference or timidity of its neighbors allow, and to hold or draw back when met by determined resistance, and wait for a new chance to spring at its victims."

Next probable Soviet victim will be French Indo-China, already torn with Communist revolt. Siam, Burma and Malaya would probably follow.

Another weak spot which may fall to Russia without a battle is Iran. Already, Soviet pressure has caused Iran to ban retransmission of the Voice of America and the British Broadcasting company on local radio stations. Meanwhile, a secret Russian station has been calling Kurd tribes to revolt.

Truman and MacArthur

President Truman came into a cabinet meeting some time ago carrying a copy of the New Republic, the liberal weekly magazine.

During the cabinet session, Secretary of Defense Marshall complained about the difficulty of getting cooperation from General MacArthur. He indicated that MacArthur was a law unto himself. Truman listened, finally held up a copy of the New Republic.

"This is the way to handle that bird," he said.

Cabinet members, after the meeting, immediately sent for copies of the magazine. It contained an article by former Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes criticizing MacArthur for violating directives from Washington.

Happy Chandler's Tears

Senate colleagues always knew Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler as one of the happiest men in congress when he served as senator from Kentucky. But his smile turned to tears at his annual banquet for major league club owners in Tampa.

Happy had just been informed by his guests that his $65,000-a-year contract would not be renewed.

No one was expected to show up for the banquet that followed, but nonetheless, news reports that the party "proceeded without a hitch" were wrong. It started at 8:03 p.m.—two hours late. All but New York Giants' Horace Stoneham and St. Louis Cardinals' Fred Saigh came. Saigh is the big gun behind Chandler's ouster.

The unhappy host refused to take his customary seat at the head table but sat by himself with his back to his guests. Several times he was forced to leave the room to wipe his eyes.

Chandler, sitting alone, said he was sitting where he felt he belonged. Once he sent out for a box of cigars and presented them to Joe Cronin of Boston as an ironic gift for Cronin's anti-Chandler vote.

The atmosphere was tense and electrifying. Hardly anyone dared speak to other guests.

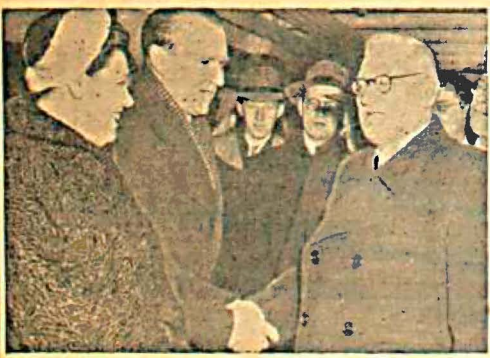

SHAKESPEARE TO "WHODUNNIT" . . . Two greats of the Thespian world are chatting here on the set of a film in which they are teamed. At left is Maurice Evans, famed English Shakespearean actor, who has been dodging Hollywood blandishments for 18 years, finally to succumb to a film contract. His companion is Ethel Barrymore of the "royal family."

RED "PEACE" APPROACH . . . While Communists in the United States still prefer to work underground, Communist workers in Bologna, Italy, apparently make no secret of their intentions. They attach cards to their machines like the one operated by this girl. The card reads: "This machine never will produce for war." The card-machine campaign is one of the Communist efforts to stall the rearming of Atlantic Pact nations against the threat of Russian domination.

INNOCENT CAUSE OF RIOT . . . Maria Bertha Hertogh, 14, Dutch girl who was the innocent cause of the racial rioting in Singapore, arrives with her mother, Mrs. Adeline Hertogh, and her father in Amsterdam. The girl was reared a Moslem after she was lost during the Japanese occupation of Java. She was returned to her mother by a British court after marriage to a Moslem was annulled. Court decision caused Moslem riots.

BON VOYAGE . . . Jacob Malik (man at left) bids goodbye in Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky aboard the French liner Liberté as Vishinsky departs for Moscow. With Malik is Mrs. Malik. Vishinsky got off one last blast at the United States and its North Atlantic Pact allies as "enemies of the peace" before he sailed. General Wu Hsiang-Chuan, chief of the Chinese delegation to the U.N., was also on hand to see Vishinsky off.

N.A.M. PRESIDENT . . . William H. Ruffin, president and treasurer of Erwin Mills, Inc., Durham, N.C., has been named 1951 president of the National Association of Manufacturers. He has been with the Erwin company throughout his career.

HEADS CHEMISTS . . . Dr. Edgar C. Britton, director of organic research laboratory of the Dow Chemical Co., has been chosen president-elect of the American Chemical Society in ballot of 63,000 chemists and chemical engineers.

SUCCEEDS WILSON . . . Ralph J. Cordiner has been elected president of the General Electric Company to succeed Charles E. Wilson who resigned to accept appointment as director of the new office of defense mobilization.

BAGS RED MIG-15 . . . Lt. Col. Bruce Hinton, 31, Stockton, Calif., pilot of a U.S. air force Sabre Jet, shot down a Soviet-built MIG-15 minutes after the Sabre entered combat over Korea. The Sabre is the world's fastest fighter plane and its victory over the Red's heartened UN air force men in Korean fighting.

NEW PRESS SECRETARY . . . The White House has announced that President Truman has selected Joseph H. Short, Jr., veteran Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, as Presidential press secretary.

Take a Letter!

AGAIN PRESIDENT TRUMAN has done himself an injury by writing a characteristically impetuous letter that will cost him votes should he again be a candidate for the Presidency. In billingsgate such as a marine might use in expressing his opinion of the Chinese Reds, he upbraids a music critic on the Washington Post for a criticism of daughter Margaret's voice. The critic said it was flat. It was the President, not Margaret, who objected to the statement. He might have disagreed without injury, but he will not be excused for the language he used in telling that music critic how and where he will beat up that critic should they ever meet.

It was language that he should not have used while holding the job as President of a great, cultured and Christian nation. It is language that will be recalled, and remembered by many thousands should the President again ask for their support in 1952. Harry S. Truman should establish for himself a censor to pass on all of his unofficial correspondence who would check his impetuous outbursts.

The joint statement issued at the close of five days of conversations failed to disclose any real purpose for the British prime minister's visit to Washington. All that was accomplished, if anything, might have been done in a 15-minute telephone conversation. Of course, Prime Minister Attlee may have needed a vacation, or he may have wanted a few untroubled meals, with bacon and real eggs, not the powdered kind, for breakfast. Such things are hard to come by in socialist England.

As far as the President was concerned, the one thing he asked for, but did not get, was for England to stop the supplies it is selling to Red China, direct or through Hong Kong. That would touch the British pocket-book, and Attlee turned thumbs down on such a proposition. Any way it was a nice call, and went off with every evidence of friendliness. What purpose there may have been back of it we may find out later, and then we may not.

The increase of 16 cents an hour in the wages of U.S. steel workers is but the beginning of another round of wage increases, to be followed by another round of commodity price increases, that is more inflation. For the next two or more years the largest purchaser of commodities will be the United States government, either for rearming ourselves or for the rearming of western European nations, for which we are obligated to do the paying. U.S. Steel has already announced a 5 1/2 per cent increase.

According to the figures of Raymond Moley, a 16 cent an hour wage increase for only 6,000,000 workers means a total increase of more than $6,000,000, all of which will be passed on to the purchaser. It is $6,000,000 the American tax payer must dig up.

Congress gave the President authority to freeze both wages and prices, but it did not fix the time. Fortunately he cannot freeze price increases without also wage increases. While he waits, the dollar continues to devalue. Inflation continues to grow. We not only pay more for the commodities we buy for our personal use, but we pay billions more for the government's abridgment for rearmament at home and abroad.

Inflation is not "just around the corner"; it is here and is growing. The President tells us to quit buying things we do not need, things we can get along without, but his government does not practice what he preaches. The one big spender for things we could get along without is the government.

I wonder why the President in making appointments, finds it expedient, in so many cases to pick those with questionable backgrounds—those who made the wrong guesses in our Chinese policy, causing us to favor the Chinese Reds. Certainly there are enough members of the Democratic party, whose associations are not questionable, who cannot be charged with Communist leanings, to fill the jobs and whom the senate would confirm without question.

It may be good politics to insist on keeping Secretary Acheson on the payroll, but the flood of protests pouring into the President does not indicate such a condition for a man who may again be a candidate for the presidency.

Two mysteries for which we may never be given a solution: one, the President's real reason for the trip to see MacArthur. Two, the real purpose of Prime Minister Attlee's trip to Washington.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Ivy growing in water will be helped considerably if you keep a small chunk of charcoal in the water.

Rub a little castor oil or mineral oil lightly over the leaves of house plants to keep them looking green and to stimulate growth by cleaning the pores through which the plant breathes.

Preventing candles from bending and drooping in the summer offers a choice of two approaches. Either take the candles out of their holders, wrap them in waxed paper, and lay them away flat in a drawer or closet; or give them a couple of coats of clear varnish or shellac before the hot weather sets in.

If a candle is a little too small for a holder, you can make it firm by dipping the holder—provided it's metal—into piping hot water for a few minutes to get it hot before inserting the candle.

Stumps of candles and candles ruined by summer heat can be melted down and made into new candles by pouring the molten wax into an empty cold cream jar or a cardboard milk or cream container. If the cold cream jar is used, the candle can be burned right in the jar. With the cardboard carton, it's a simple matter to tear the paper aside once the wax gets hard. In either case, though, put a piece of string in the middle of a wick, and tie a weight to the bottom of it to keep it from rising while the wax is still in a fluid state.

Doeskin, pigskin and most smooth-leather gloves can be washed in lukewarm water and mild soap. The handiest way is just to put the gloves on and proceed as if you were washing your hands. The important part is not to rinse them in clear water, as this usually leaves the leather stiff and hard after it dries. Instead, make sure that every batch of rinse water used has soap in it; the soap residue in the gloves will keep the leather soft. If you need more softening effect than that, try mixing a spoonful of olive oil in with the wash water.

To clean pearls and amber beads, rub olive oil on them with a piece of flannel or chamois. Go easy on the amount of oil and the pressure of your rubbing.

To make a homemade glue, soak some tapioca in water. This is particularly good to give children when they want to paste in scrapbooks.

Nearly any kind of ring is best cleaned with a toothbrush. Soap and water will do the job, unless the ring is badly tarnished, in which case try using bicarbonate of soda. Just dip the damp brush in the bicarb and scrub the ring; then rinse the ring when you're finished.

Grind luncheon meat and sweet pickles together for a sandwich spread; moisten with mayonnaise or creamy salad dressing. In making the sandwiches use one slice of whole wheat bread and one slice of white bread.

A CONSTRUCTIVE DEBATE

To a few self-professed foreign policy experts, perhaps, the re-examination of this Nation's policy of international relations which is now taking place may seem an irritating thing. But for most Americans the debate is reassuring, wholly constructive, and long overdue.

In the world as it is today, the lives and futures of each American depends on the decisions that our Government must make in its dealings with foreign powers. For too long those decisions have been made almost exclusively by professional diplomats and military officials, with very little explanation offered the public as to the reasons on which the decisions have been based. Criticism of any of the decisions has invariably been dismissed as carping and as "undermining unity."

To be achieved, however, unity has to be based on confidence, and confidence in the realism and sound purpose of our foreign policy has steadily deteriorated. There is far more hope for unity now than our foreign relations have ceased to be a taboo subject, and a lively re-examination of the issues is taking place in the halls of Congress. In our newspapers and magazines, over the airwaves and in daily grass roots discussion.

It is to the everlasting credit of such outstanding Americans as Herbert Hoover, Joseph P. Kennedy, John Foster Dulles and Thomas Dewey to have come forward with their views at this time. Out of their divergent opinions, and the views of many who defend most phases of Administration foreign policy, a certain area of agreement already has been reached. There is definite accord that America must at once be made militarily strong; there is a new disposition to insist that our European allies take the initiative in their own defense; and there is general agreement that this Nation can no longer recklessly commit itself to action anywhere and everywhere on the globe without first measuring the cost.

More than just a bi-partisan foreign policy, America needs a policy that the public which must support it can understand and approve. There are hopeful signs that out of the present controversy, such a policy may emerge.

Political Parade

CLEM WHITAKER, Jr.

While most of the old faces were present, in many respects, it was a far sober lot of legislators that gathered in the Capitol at Sacramento on Monday to open the 1951 regular session.

The big question mark facing the State's solons hovers over the tough problems of gearing California to preparedness—to providing adequate civilian defense while sustaining the State's economy.

Soft-spoken Assemblyman Francis Dunn of Oakland probably sums up the general tenor of the critical session, when he states that "everyone is going to try and do the best job possible."

The genial, hard-working Dunn, a Democrat, forges little party bickering during the session even in regard to reappointment, believing that argument will break along regional lines—but he anticipates many a fast and furious fight outside party lines, nevertheless.

As the session gets underway, here is the outlook, according to legislators and observers on some major issues:

Civilian Defense. Quick action can be expected in voting some 150 million dollars as California's share of the national civilian defense program.

The Budget. Unless governmental revenues increase, there appears little chance that it will be balanced—although with few exceptions everyone will strive to hold the line.

Taxes. A general increase in all State taxes is possible with a cigarette tax for general revenue a distinct possibility.

Schools. Assemblyman Dunn is readying a new 250 million dollar bond issue which stands a reasonable chance of passage. An attempt also will be made to increase the minimum guarantee to schools from $90 per pupil per year to $97 and to place payment of the compensation on a current, rather than a previous year basis.

Highways. A one billion dollar bond issue, financed by an additional one cent gas tax, is being bruted about. A terrific fight could develop over this issue.

Pensions. There is some possibility that the Legislature will repeal the relatives responsibility clause in respect to old age pensions. At this moment, contrary to earlier reports, there is an outside possibility that the Assembly will approve the George H. McLain pension plan petition. The Senate is set to turn hands down on the proposal.

Health. Democrats and Republicans alike see no possibility of enactment of a compulsory health insurance bill. Liberalization of Workmen's Compensation, disability and unemployment insurance is in the discussion stage.

Cross-Filing. Strong sentiment exists in the Assembly (not as much in the Senate) to approve the initiative abolishing cross-filing.

Loyalty Oath. Probably no change in the existing law.

Oil. The industry, according to reports, is fairly agreed on a conservation bill.

That's the outlook in January—it can undergo a lot of changes by June.

FROM THE NEWS CIRCUIT
JAMES DORRIS

Here is a new twist in the eternal battle of the sexes:

Little girls, according to Dr. Frank R. Pauly, director of research in the Tulsa, Okla., public schools, are so much smarter than little boys that they should start school at an earlier age than their crew-cut contemporaries.

Since Dr. Pauly presented his views at a national convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science recently, many educators, obviously regarding him a traitor to his sex, have expressed sharp disagreement. But this is the way Dr. Pauly has it figured out:

Girls reach full maturity much earlier than boys, as evidenced by the higher legal marriage age for boys in most States. Girls are "older" even when they're born, according to the Oklahoma scientist, who claims that X-ray shows that their bony structure is about 10 per cent more complete at birth than that of brand new baby boys.

In Dr. Pauly's opinion, a girl of 6 is about equal in mental development to a boy of 7. He points to the high percentage of boys in remedial classes as proof that boys start first-grade too early, and need a longer period of kindergarten and pre-school preparation to get in shape to compete with their quicker-witted sisters.

One educator who sharply disagrees with Dr. Pauly's theory is Stanford University's Dr. Lewis M. Terman, noted for his long-range studies of children's attitudes. Dr. Terman believes any difference in mentality between girls and boys is so preposterous that it would be preposterous to change the elementary school system.

And Dr. Harold Spears, assistant superintendent of the San Francisco public schools, has come to the defense of junior-grade males by stating that "a boy's general knowledge of what's going on in the world about him and his ability to discuss this knowledge in the classroom is fully as great or greater than a girl's."

But the experience of one expert, neither an educator nor a psychologist, who has entered the discussion, seems to support the superiority of the female theory. Carey Baldwin, superintendent of the San Francisco Zoo, says:

"I have the impression that the females are a little bit smarter. When we're crating animals, we notice that the females use a little more ingenuity—they're not as likely to be fooled as the males, and I've also noticed that little girls who visit the zoo seldom are frightened by the animals, but not infrequently the boys are frightened."

Perhaps, however, the little boys are really frightened not by the animals but by the cages, and the premonition of what their smarter, pig-tailed playmates have in store for them.

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By G. WILSON HARDER

Watch results of the Senate Small Business Committee hearings on the current Chicago fuel oil squeeze. They may indicate how small business will fare in the new Congress.

Three years ago, when the Chicago fuel oil situation became greasy, the committee, then headed by Sen. Wherry (Rep., Neb.), acted rapidly.

In the current case, the facts are simple. On August 21st, approximately 500 independent fuel oil dealers in the Chicago area were informed by major oil companies who supply them that on August 31st the dealer's margin would be cut from 2 per gallon to 1 1/2.

Previously the major oil companies had already raised both wholesale and consumer prices 1 1/2 per gallon.

Approximately 100 independent fuel oil dealers courageously defying the tacit threats of retaliation filed affidavits with the Senate Small Business Committee through facilities maintained by organized small business.

These affidavits present a spine-chilling story. Major oil companies, from whom these dealers buy, also retail fuel oil. The affidavits give evidence of collusion, conspiracy and coercion.

Major oil companies were "Johnny-come-latelys" in fuel oil retailing. Some of the independent dealers filing affidavits, in business 50 years, pioneered oil for fuel in a local coal area.

Each dealer, even on a 2 1/2 margin, requires a big volume. His equipment investment runs into thousands of dollars. Even a small difference in his margin snuffs profit or loss.

©National Federation of Independent Business

To serve a customer, a truck costing about $5,000 is needed. Drivers must be paid; business and vehicle taxes paid.

To accommodate his customers he also extends credit. Yet a fair size home in a severely cold month will use not more than $45 worth of oil at present prices as compared to $24 in 1949. Yet for delivery and bookkeeping services, even on a 2 1/2 margin, the dealer was only getting a very small gross profit on a $45 sale.

Yet such is the nature of monopoly, that even the proverbial "widow's mite" is not overlooked.

Major oil companies have long sought to take over the independent business.

Three years ago, the Senate Small Business Committee under the leadership of Senator Wherry stopped these apparently temporarily a puzzle still remains.

"Why," members of the Senate committee of that time asked, "did not the Justice Department take steps to prevent recurrences?"

Big Oil apparently yields a reluctant official Washington is reluctant to discuss.

Thus, the present Chicago hearings, conducted by Senators Benton (Conn.), Long (La.) and Schepel (Iowa), may take 1 more territory than Chicago. The hearings may unearth the reasons why fuel and gasoline prices are raised almost simultaneously by alleged competitors; why Pa. Coast oil prices to government skyrocketed right after Korea. Even race track stewards since the curious if every race ended in a dead heat.

Save Your Jobless Pay

By ROSS GRAHAM

Ed. Note: This is the second of a series of ten special articles. Chiseling, fraud, inequities in the present unemployment insurance law already have partially destroyed "merit rating" and may destroy it entirely.

Employers with good records for holding their employees, who last year paid no unemployment insurance tax, this year are paying 1 percent, through no fault of their own. In future, they may pay the present maximum of 2 1/2 per cent, or even more.

Because of the shrinking unemployment insurance fund, every employer, regardless of his merit rating, this year was ordered to pay at least 1 per cent, of his payroll.

The way merit rating has worked is as follows:

The contributions of each employer are credited to his "reserve fund" in the Unemployment Insurance Commission treasury.

All unemployment benefits paid out to his employees who stop working for him (prior to getting another job) are deducted from his individual reserve fund, or from the general unemployment fund.

The current balance in the employer's reserve fund determines the rate of unemployment insurance contributions he must pay on his total payroll, for instance from 1 per cent up to 2 1/2 per cent at present.

But many employers who have a fine record of employment and have not been required during 1948 and 1949 to pay anything, now have to pay although their records still are perfect, or nearly so.

This is because chiselers and the inequities in the law have so depleted the fund that the good have to pay for the bad.

This situation is partly the fault of careless, indifferent or frankly dishonest employers.

Many employers, with large labor turnovers, never paid less than 2 1/2 per cent. On the basis that they cannot be taxed any higher, they have not tried for a merit rating.

These employers do not answer questionnaires from the Unemployment Insurance Commission, do not inform the Commission when employees have been discharged for cause (which prohibits payment of benefits) and do not cooperate in furnishing the Commission with information so that chiselers who draw unemployment insurance benefits while working elsewhere can be traced.

Other employers dishonestly split employees' earnings into small segments so the employees can claim partial unemployment and collect partial benefits. This may hold the employees in reserve for re-employment by the dishonest employers when needed, but it drains the fund maintained by honest employers for the benefit of honest employees honestly out of work.

A rude awakening for these employer-chiselers as well as some employee-chiselers may be in store.

Because, sufficient depletion of tions, the entire fund would be exhausted in 11 weeks. Of course, there would be contributions during those 11 weeks, but the contributions would only delay the inevitable exhaustion of the fund a few weeks more.

The remedy? To just "soak" employers to keep up the fund? Not necessarily.

The present law provides that when the balance in the fund is such that, within six months it will be unable to pay probably benefit liabilities in full, the Commission may reduce or cease payment of benefits.

There was a period in 1950 when employers and the Commission were estimating the date of such insolvency.

So—all workers could in future lose unemployment insurance because of chiseling employees and employers.

Some of the weaknesses in the act which makes such a result possible will be explained in the next installment.

Climate Was Deciding Factor

signment took him to Washington, D. C. where he spent much time drafting bills and appearing before the House and Senate Committees on Military and Veterans' Affairs. Upon completion of this assignment he remained in the Nation's Capital to enter the private practice of law.

Seeking relief from the heat and humidity of war time Washington, he subsequently moved to higher ground in nearby Arlington County, Virginia, but retained his office and practice in Washington.

He is a member of the Bar of the District of Columbia, Virginia, the Supreme Court of the United States, and after passing the required qualifying written examinations was admitted last year to the State Bar of California.

When asked by a Review editor why he happened to select Lemon Grove as a place to live and practice, Hussey replied: "I did it scientifically and independently. You know you can take a girl out of the West but you can't take the West out of the girl. For many years I had promised Mary that we would someday return to the West. However, I finally convinced her that the selection of a place to live shouldn't be based on sentimentality.

"I have often observed that when it comes to settling on a place to live, most people seem to be victims of circumstances. They move to, or remain in a certain place because of love affairs, job opportunities, family ties, or business interests, etc. We decided to be different.

"Laying all such sentimental and financial reasons aside, we decided that what we really desired most was a mild year-around climate in a suburban community among sincere Christian people. In other words, we wanted our choice of a place to live to be based on the simple fact that it would be a good place to live.

"We next began the usual collection of travel folders and Chamber of Commerce propaganda from various places. After carefully studying this material we were more confused than ever. I finally concluded that it was all written by the same expert.

"Then, while preparing for trial a case in which proof of the exact state of the weather at a certain time and place was most important, I went to the Washington office of the Weather Bureau and was amazed at the comprehensive detail with which certain weather bureau records are kept. From this source we obtained copies of records covering such places as Florida, Arizona, the Gulf states, California and others.

"Now in these records such weather factors as high, low, and mean temperatures; fog, humidity, wind velocities, etc., are set up in tabular form so that one may run down the column of figures without particular reference to the name or location of the place. In this manner and by process of elimination I determined from the official records that the Lemon Grove-La Mesa-Grossmont-Mt. Helix area of San Diego County truly had the best year-around climate in the United States.

"About two years ago we came here for a personal inspection and were so favorably impressed by both the climate and the people that we decided to close out our interests in the East and return again to stay.

"Noting that Lemon Grove is suffering from commercial growing pains, but having great confidence in its future, I decided to erect the type of building most suitable to my requirements.

"Practically all of the goods, materials, and services used in the construction of this building were purchased locally. Knowledge of the local availability of many of the materials and services used is a direct result of advertising by local merchants in the Lemon Grove Review."

Hussey invites his friends and neighbors to inspect this building and his offices at any time.

Offer Unusual Classes at III

This is the first in a series of articles about unusual classes at Grossmont Union High School.

One of the classes in English that attracts many of the Juniors and Seniors is the Literary Appreciation class, a course in books and reading that is designed, above all, to promote enjoyment and understanding in reading.

The class originated five years ago out of a conversation between two teachers, who decided it would be nice to teach the subject that the teachers knew, and liked best. With the initiative of Mrs. Eva Quickall and the full co-operation of all the teachers, they have been able to make this course one of the outstanding classes presented at the High School.

The course is divided into separate units. The units this year, as in the past, are arranged to give the senior students maximum help in taking the college entrance examinations. Note-taking, Plays, and the Theatre, are taught by Mrs. Eva Quickall; following this unit is Biography, presented by John Goss; Writing Techniques, by John Dewey; Grammar Review, by Miss Madge McRae; Poetry and Verse Choir, Mr. Robert Kuykendall; Newspapers and Magazines, Howard Scantlin; Short Stories,

Mrs. Dorothy Smith, and the Novel by George Dubow.

In order to enrich the units as much as possible, phonographs and movies are used. In practically all of the units, an outside speaker is provided. Some of the speakers who have appeared during the different classes have been Gus Ariola, cartoonist; Gene Peach, drama critic; Wade Miller, novelist; Charlie Cannon, Star-light opera singer; Harry Hayes and Robby Kiteham, stage personalities; Dr. Phillips, English professor at State College; Sam Hinton, folk singer; Mrs. Kirk, soloist; Mrs. Ritslaff, short story writer and many others.

In a course of this sort, the teachers are able to present to the students a sample of all types of literature, and to leave with the students a pleasant memory of reading done and a curiosity to examine the specific type further. They cannot, of course, expect each student to enjoy every type of literature studied, but they can hope to give that student an understanding of why others might enjoy that particular kind of reading even though he does not.

The class in Literary Appreciation is the only class of its type in any of the schools of San Diego city and county.

Fix Salary Schedule at III

The Board of Trustees of Grossmont Union High School district approved a "cost of living adjustment" for each member of the faculty and each employee of $210 for the remainder of the school year. The decision was based upon presentation of figures by the faculty committee showing an increase in the cost of living of 7 per cent during the year plus reduced take-home pay of over $10,000.

Also considered by the Board was the need to keep salaries paid to teachers commensurate with that being paid in other districts and in other lines of endeavor. The action was taken when it was found that funds were available from the Undistributed Reserve fund. Continuation of this adjustment will be determined by the availability of funds for next year. Possibility of additional federal or state money for next year as a means of financing the increase was discussed. It was pointed out that this action will not necessitate any increase in the local tax rate which is now at the legal maximum of 75 cents.

Artist Opens Studio Here

Effie Olson Bisbee announces the opening of her art studio at 3538 Main. She is showing many landscapes of mountain, desert and marine views.

Mrs. Bisbee majored in art at State College and then studied with the late Maurice Braun. She recently won an award at the Riverside County Fair with an oil painting, "Twin Sycamores." Visitors are always welcome.

Adversity is sometimes hard upon a man; but for one man who can stand prosperity there are a hundred that will stand adversity. Carlyle

High School News

One of Grossmont's most popular teachers is Miss Martha Schutte, instructor of world geography, social studies and international relations, and head of the Social Studies Department.

Miss Schutte was born in Seattle, Wash. and attended the University of California at Berkeley. She completed five years of study earning her Bachelor of Arts and Master's degrees with a history major and a German, English and political science minor.

As a member of that fairer sex, she wouldn't say how many years she's taught, but she did admit being at Grossmont five years. She has done a considerable amount of traveling, visiting Cuba, Alaska, parts of Europe and Mexico where she spent Christmas this year.

The success of the student government considering the enormous size of Grossmont greatly impresses Miss Schutte. She came to Grossmont from a small school where everyone knew everyone and although G.U.H.S. is large and somewhat formal she believes the social activities and opportunities are wonderful. And of course Grossmont's school spirit also highly impressed her.

As head of the Social Studies Department, she strives to achieve better relationships between students, teachers, and parents, because she agrees with other teachers at Grossmont that in this day and age successful individuals whether in a group, community or nation has its basis in the home. The department is constantly working to teach the student why they should try to live peacefully and happily with one another.

The Grossmont Adult Education Department is offering a class in textile painting for the Rolando area, to be taught by Mrs. Pauline McKenzie, beginning in the Rolando Elementary School on Wednesday evening, January 17, at 7 o'clock.

The Adult Education Department is offering a class in Child and Parent Psychology. It will include the principles of child rearing with specific emphasis on the problems of family life. The class begins Friday afternoon, January 19, 1:30 to 3:30 p. m., at the La Mesa Intermediate School. This is a lecture and observation course taught by Mrs. Edith Boutwell.

Society is built upon trust, and trust upon confidence in one another's integrity. South

4-H BEEF PROJECT POPULAR

Sixty-seven 4-H boys and girls are now feeding out beef calves. Beef feeding is the most popular 4-H project, according to preliminary reports from local 4-H leaders.

Dan Close, farm advisor in charge of 4-H agricultural club work, says that the preliminary reports include a total of 248 boys and girls enrolled in 21 different agricultural projects offered by the 4-H Club program.

PLANNING FOR AN INCREASE IN PRODUCTION

With plenty of feed on hand and a strong demand for meat, milk and eggs in prospect, it looks like good business to maintain current numbers of live-stock and poultry and to make moderate increases. The anticipated demand for food at home and abroad indicates higher prices and profitable production provided sound programs of management, breeding, sanitation and feeding are followed.

The first step in efficient live-stock and poultry production is the use of good breeding stock. It's difficult, if not impossible, to realize satisfactory profits when poor breeding stock is used.

Production must be high, mortalities low and the operation must be large enough to make full use of labor and equipment. Plan a program that will keep all labor, housing and equipment working to capacity. Use a good feeding program to help reduce mortality and to increase growth and production.

The amount spent as production costs may be the same for two farmers but the net profits may be very different. For example, a good manager will show almost unbelievably greater profits from feeding a ton of feed than a farmer who feeds a like ton of feed but fails to manage quite so well.

Top breeding stock, good feed returns, volume production, high yields, low mortalities or no other one factor will guarantee profits. On the other hand a
